Instructions for the contributors:

1. Introduction to Contribution:

   - We thank you for expressing your concern for providing your contribution to our website.

   - The purpose of this website is to provide detailed career roadmaps for various fields, helping individuals plan their career paths effectively.

2. Guidelines for Contribution:

   - It is important for your roadmaps to be concise and accurate so that the users of that roadmap won't face any kind of issues.

   - We would like to encourage you to focus on specific industries, professions, or job roles that you are knowledgeable about or have experience in.

   - It very important to provide clear and concise information that can be easily understood by users at different stages of their career journey.

3. Content Structure:

   Structure for the roadmap contributions:

     - Introduction to the field or industry

     - Education and skill requirements

     - Entry-level positions and career progression

     - Advanced roles and specializations

     - Continuing education and professional development opportunities

     - Include relevant resources, such as books, websites, courses, and certifications.

4. Quality Standards:

   - Use clear headings, bullet points, and provide sources for factual information.

   - We request that contributors avoid plagiarism and ensure that their submissions are original and not copied from other sources.

5. Submission Process:

- Just upload the pdf at the provided space.

6. Review and Approval Process:

   - The files submitted by you will undergo our observations before being published on the website.

   -The review process will take time of almost a week or more and you will be notified about the status of your submission.

7. Legal Considerations:

   - We would like to remind contributors to respect copyright laws and only submit content they have the right to share.

   - We would like to provide a disclaimer stating that submitted content may be edited for clarity, consistency, or compliance with website standards.

8. Community Engagement:

   - We encourage all the contributors to engage with the website's community by responding to comments or questions related to their contributions.

9. Acknowledgment and Recognition:

   -We express our appreciation for the contributions received and acknowledge the efforts of contributors in helping build a valuable resource for the community.

   - We will be acknowledging contributors, by featuring their names or profiles alongside their contributions and providing badges or rewards for notable contributions.

10. Feedback and Support:

   - We would like to invite users to provide feedback on the contribution process and suggest any improvements or additional features they would like to see.

   - Users can feel free to ask us for help at crp@gmail.com